Proclamation by the Governor.

WHEREAS, The following act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, cordially approved by me on the 20th instant, is the law of the land, I think proper, in the exercise of my executive duties, to make the same promptly known to the public, as I do hereby, and I do earnestly enjoin all citizens and residents of this State to be obedient to all the requirements thereof, to the end that the humane and noble purposes of the Legislature may be faithfully effected. The said act of the General Assembly is as follows:

WITEREAS, The people of Kentucky have, from the beginning, nrdently desired and still cherish the hope that they may not be involved in the unnatural, prevailing civil strife that Kentucky is now, as she ever has been willing, and ready to interpose her friendily mediation in adjusting terms of peace and re-conciliation alike honorable and just to all; but as her wishes to mediate and restore hnrmony may not avail at present, and it is desirable that the people in the meuntime, should act in harmony, and be at peace among themselves, so that if they shall be adjustment. involved in war, they will as far as possible, relieve and palliate its calamities; therefore Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That if collisions between hostile armies shall take place within our territory, that it is most earnestly re-commended to the people of Kentucky not to engage in said strife amongst themselves. ount of differences of political opinions that it is the duty of the people to be chedient to the civil nuthorities, and respect in times of war as well as peace, all the rights guaranteed to every citizen by the Constitution and laws of the land, that all good citizens however they may differ in political opinions, should unite in protecting each other in their rights, of life, liberty, and property, against all and every invasion thereof by unlawful raids, mobs, marauding bands or other evil disposed persons, and aid the civil autherities in arresting all such persons and bringing them before the courts for trinl.

Resolved, That we, the Representatives of the present General Assembly hereby pledge ourselves to a strict observance of the foregoing resolutions, and carnestly recommend : observance by all the people of the Stute of Kentucky.

In testimony whereof, I, BERIAH MAGOFFIN, Governor of the Commonwealth of Keatucky, have hereunto subscribed my name and caused the seal of the State to be affixed. Done at Frankfort this 23d day of September, in the year of our Lord, 1861, and in the 70th year of the Commonwealth. By the Governor: B. MAGOFFIN.

"The members of the General Assembly shall, in all cases, except treason, felony breach or surety of the peace, be privileged ing to, and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place."

Both Houses of the Legislature yesterday, as will be seen by the proceedings, very properly took action on the brench of privilege involved in the alleged arrest of the gentlemen named.

The Paeific coast will undoubtedly gain largely, as interfering in any way except as mediator or its industry is not affected, and it offers better inducements to the thrifty and enterprising than any other section of the country.

[For the Yeoman.] Some of the members of the present Legisgarding the policy the party inaugurated in Kentucky, and had been attempting to earry out in good faith-I mean neutrality.

One's ears are dinned with the clamor that Kentucky has, in three elections, decided emphatically for the Union and for its maintenance by force of arms, and the country has seen the resolutions and acts passed, and pending in the present Legislature, to force "us ready for mailing) at the rate of $3 per hun- all in the war, or make it disgraceful' to stay

The purpose of my remarks now is to show that our Union brethren of the present Legislature are slightly mistaken in the record. The first election alluded to was that for delegates to the Border Slave State Convention to be held in Frankfort, in May, 1861. Kentucky passed joint resolutions declaring that some of the States had been deeply aggriceed by the policy of the people of some of the other States; and therefore an amendment to the Constitution of the United States was insimilar grievances in the future.

The Legislature therefore asked Congress by the Constitution of the United States, and they proposed Mr. Crittenden's propositions in Resolutions providing for the peace and quiet of Congress as a basis for the amendments. This the citizens of this Commonwealth. was approved January 25, 1861.

On the 29th of January, '61, the Legislature of Kentucky appointed six commissioners on the invitation of Virginia, to meet at Washington with commissioners from other States, to prepure amendments to the Constitution of the United States to settle the grievances complained of by the dissatisfied States.

They also proposed the plan of Hon. John J. Crittenden to that Convention as a basis of April 4th, 1861, the Legislature of Kentucky passed resolutions adopting the amendment to the Constitution of the United States proposed by Congress, "That no amendment shall be made to the Constitution of the United States, which will authorize or give Congress power to abolish or interfere in any State with the domestic institutions thereof, including that of persons held to service or labor by the laws of suid State." And added the following thereto-mark the words: That suid proposed amendment ought not to he accepted by Kentucky as a final settlement of existing difficulties. In all this resolving on the part of the Keatucky Legislature, if there was, or is anything indicuting that the members thereof, individually or collectively, were for makeing Kentucky take part on behalf of the United States against the seceding States, I don't know where it is. I understand that members explain now when they go to vote upon the force measures, felony bills, &c., concoctad in the secret meetings of the Union members, what they meant when they voted for the foregoing resolutions, and that they meant anything else than neutrality.

The Border Slave States Convention met at Frankfort, in May, 1861. On the 3d day of June, 1861, after the most mature consideration and deliberation, they put forth addresses to the people of the United States and the State of Kentucky, in which they solemnly declared that the State of Kentucky, after the most deliberate consideration of the responsibilities, moral, political, from arrest, during their attendance at the and social, had determined that the proper session of their respective houses, and in go- course for her to pursue was to take no part in the controversy between the Government and the seceded States but that of mediators and intercessors. Now, gentlemen Legislators of our Union party, we say that the distinguished gentlemen whom we elected by a most decided vote to the Border Slave States Convention, viz. Hon. J. J. Crittenden, Hon. James Guthrie exaggeration and that the gentlemen have Hon. R. K. Williams, Hon. Arch. Dixon, Hon, F. M. Bristow, Hon, Joshua F. Bell Hon. Chas. A. Wiekliffe, Hou. G. W. Dunlap, Hon. It has been done by inviting President Lincoln to place military camps amongs us. The following account of the battle at the Blue Mills Landing is derived from anthentic

Lientenant Colonel Scott, with 570 men of in pursuit of the rebels who left St. Joseph on the Friday previous. Col. Scott arrived at Liberty, Clay county, on the morning of the 17th, and moved from that place at I o'clock, P. M. At three o'clock he fell in with the enemy, 4,500 in number, occupying a strong position. Our skirmishers received a galling of the Knickerbocker Magazine. It is full of terrible significance:

when the action became general. Our six-pounder was brought to bear on the enemy, and a few shots were fired, which proved destructive. At this time a heavy fire opened matches, rendering the piece useless. The action continued about an hour, when our column was withdrawn to more open ground, bringing oil the wounded and dragging away the gun hy hand, ull the borses having killed or badly wounded. About this time! Col. Smith who left St. Joseph with 400 men eron for the same general purpose, joined the latter, having pushed forward his mounted men and artillery at a rapid paco. Three of the missing are supposed to be in the hands of the enemy, and the balance killed. In addition to the loss of the Third Iowa there were six Home Guards and one artilleryman killed-among them Capt. Capp-and about ten wounded, four of them Home Guards, in skirmishes about two hours before the hattle. It is perhaps proper to state that Gen. Pope gave orders to Col. ARREST OF EX-GOVERNOR MOREHEAD .-Prepared, as we have been by recent oc currences, for almost any exercise of power we confess to no little surprise on reading the announcement of the arrest of ex-Gov. Chas. S. Morehead. He has always been noted for his conservative principles. No man was mere devoted to the Union, or has inbored nore enraestly to avert the terrible calamities uader which the country is suffering; no man has made greater exertions to maintain

Kentucky in her position of neutrality.

Gov. Morehead has filled many important public trusts, and in no instance has his integrity been questioned, whilst his private life has illustrated those gruces and virtues which at once command respect and admirution. His friends will not readily helieve that he has been guilty of any offense justifying his arrest and transportation beyond the limits of the State. If guilty, let him suffer the consequences. But if, as we suspect, he has been arrested for opinion's sake, let the Legislature of Kentucky, acting in accordance with the spirit of the Conklin and Finnell resolutions, demand his instant release .- Cov. We take the following from the New York Evening Post, (Republican.) England needs watching:

ANOTHER CROAK FROM THE BIRD OF ILL-OMEN-THE LONDON TIMES ON AMERICAN WAR PROSPECTS.

The London Times of September 4, has this eroak over American affairs: The crash of R new political world is an awful phenomenon. War has dashed like a comet upon the great American republic, and all the the institutions and destinies of that inighty Union seem scattered in fragments around. It is impossible to predict the formations which may survive after the convulsion has passed nway, but all that we now see tends irresistibly to convince us that we shall never again behold that specimen of political organization which so amazed us with its growth and impressed us with its apparent vigor. The United States of North America have ceased to be. Whether their place will be taken by two Unions or twenty, whether the principle of confederation will be merely limited or absolutely disearded, nobody earn venture to foretell, but we can not so much as imagine any course of events which will leave the last state of things with so much re semblance to the first. Enough has now been learnt to show that the subjugation of the South is next to impossible, and its submission in the highest degree improbable. The territories of the old Union will he divided, nor will the partition be territorial Between North and South there will be barriers of feelings, interests and trudi-tions. They will long look upon each other with jealousy and suspicion, if not with still worse sentiments, and the "frontier" will require the same garrisons and observances as that between two monarchies of the European continent. This, however, presumes the maintenance of standing armies, warlike estimates and oppressive taxation; while these burdens again will exercise an influence upon all social and political institutions. Never mild a more wonderful problem be present-

We need say little in defense of an assumption that the conquest of the South by the armies of the North has now become a most improbable event. All the incidents of the war appear to have been in favor of the Confederate States. In the only engagements approaching to the character of a pitched battle the Southern troops have been victorious, and, though we hear little of their operations, it is at least certain that they are aggressive and that the Federal Government is alarmed for the safety of the Capital. With affairs in such a state every day detracts from the chances of compromise, except on the basis of a recognized separation; and it will have been seen, indeed, from our New York eorrespondence that the staunchest Federalists have now brought theniselves to contemplate this disruption of the Union as a possible re-Hitherto the lapse of time, while it has evidently added to the confidence of the South, has brought little accession of strength The States adhering to to the North. the Union do, indeed, contribute men and munitions on a scale which does honor to their patriotism, but the battalions are undisciplined, ill-equipped, and what is worse than all, insubordinate. The reverses and privations of an unsuecessful war are very lifferent from the glories of the brief campaign which was contemplated by the Presilent's volunteers, and the jealousy which the Americans entertain of all authority finds its expression even in a camp. On the other hand, the Southerners, less addicted to the institutions of Democracy, less imbued with ideas of social equality, and conscious, probably, of a more desperate position, huve earried far greater energy to the work of war. We can see that in the South power is concentrated, and we find the natural results in a clear military superiority. itself, and all tend in one and the same direction. we can not now contemplate the subjugation and reunion of the South as a probable event, we must assume that the two sections of the Union will be established independently of each other. To venture as little as possible upon political speculations, let us assume that the selvism is carried no further, and that the United States of the North divide with the Confederate States of the South all the territory and population of the old American Re-Each, then, of these two still powerful Unions will constitute an Administration for itself. What form will that Administration take in the South? True, the secessionists proelaimed a Constitution of an old American model, but it is clear enough that the authority actually excreised in thos is that of a military dictator, and not of a Democratic President. What will they do by and by, when they have won their independence They will probably maintain, for some time, as a matter of prudence, the organization under which they conducted a successful war, and we think that nobody who has remarked the tone and current of Southern sentiments would expect to find that New England institutions would ever be received with much favor in the new Confederacy. It is more likely that they will sacrifice Democratic principles for the sake of a strong government, and that they will seek to retain power by the same means through which they acquired it—namely, by opposing the compact and concentrated force of a somewhat absolute government to the looser organization of a more popular State. But will this impose no corresponding obligations on the North? Will the Unionist States sit quietly down under institutions less conducive to national strength than those of their next-door neighbor? Will they submit to the spectacle of a stronger government there heir own on their very borders for the sake of that popular sovereignty which universal suffrage has created? Can they manage a standing army a national deliversal suffrage has created? The sake of the popular sovereignty which universal suffrage has created? Can they manage a standing army a national deliversal suffrage has created? President. age a standing army, a national debt, and an ever present chance of border war on such terms? Will their favorite General, whoever he may, come into such conditions when elected President? Is it not, on the whole, more probable that they may retain some of the modifications of their Constitution which the war is now enforcing upon Another Hostile Article From the London their acceptance and that the new Union will be administered by a less Democratic Government than the old? We certainly think so. The two great divisions of the States formerly united will form, we hope, two prosperous communities, but we do not expect that either of them will hear much resemblance to the lost American Republic.

Political and Military Maneuvers-Fremont

and the President.

When a full account of the Fremont imbroglio shall be written, it will make a curious and instructive chapter in the politico-military history of the United States.

On taken command at St. Louis, Gen. Fremont infused new life into the military operations of the West. His energetic movements and imperative commands soon brought together a heavy force at St. Louis. No trivial obstacle, no mere prestion of cost, was allowed to interfere with the execution of his plans. He ordered immense supplies, including henvy guns, to be sent forward by express. informed that the charges for mode of transportation would be very heavy, he telegraphed back. "Send them on, immediately, regardless of cost.

This decisive action suited the temper of the Northern people. They wanted some-thing doue. The "forward movement" at Washington had failed. Rivalries and jealousies were springing up in high quarters at the capital. The President, the members of his Calinet, and even the Lieutenant-General himself, had not escaped bitter denunciation leading Republican newspapers, The hopes of the North were turned to a new scene and a new man; and Fremont bid fair overshadow all other aspirants for the Presdency. In this condition of affairs it needed but one thing more to throw the "slow coachat Washington completely off the truck, and place the new man of the west far ahead of all competitors. This was accomplished.

Next in the order of facts comes the Presi dent's REQUEST to Gen. Fremont to modify his proclamation, followed successively by Gen. Fremont's demand for a formal orDER to that effect, and the President's ready compliance.

At this juncture, Col. F. P. Blair, a mem er of Congress and brother of a niember of the Cabinet, goes to St. Lous, and is there ordered under military arrest. [Blair will find few sympathizers. He is said to be presumptuous and overbearing, and unpuestionably, he had no small share in inaugurating the deplorable state of affairs existing in Mis-

A fact of peeuliar significance, when considered in connection with the events already spoken of, remains to be stated. We have seen with what energy Fremont went to work to gather together a great army for a movement down the Mississippi. Just at the time the public had reason to suppose his arrangements were about perfected, large bodies of troops are detached from his division and sent to Washington. When it is remembered that at least three members of the Cubinet at Washington are candidates for the Presidency, it will not be difficult to detect under the movements above detailed the progress of a big political game. As matters stand, Fremont has the advantage, and is likely to hold it. The President's rebuke will only strengthen him in the estimation of the radicals of the Republican partythe men who control the rulling sentiment of the North. Even his removal would not wenken him. In fact, we see nothing now that is likely to break the hold he has upon the confidence of the North, save his defeat on the field of battle. THAT would ruin his

> Collision on the Covington and Lex-INGTON ROAD.-We learn that a collision took place on the Covington and Lexington R. R., Friday evening, by which a number of lives were lost. The aecident is said to have been caused by Mr. Boler sending down an extra train in the absense of the Superintendent, and without consulting the time table. Mr. Boler has purchased that branch of the road, and doubtless feels at liberty to send what trains he pleases, and to risk the lives of citizens, but the rash carelessness of such n course is utterly indefeasible. The Superintendent of a railroad ought to have command as complete and effectual as the lender of an army. The review of the British eorn trade, in the Mark Lane Express for the week ending August 31, winds up its remarks on the crops of France, Germany, Portugal, and Italy, as well as those of the British isles, by saying "With all the favorable weather we have had here and on the continent, rates have been Wheat is not anywhere plentiful; rye is short in Germany, maize seriously so in Italy, and potatoes are generally doubtful. Lower prices, therefore, if reached, must be transient The harvest not being satisfactory in Portugal, all eorn [grain,] excepting maize, is admitted free of duty to the 30th of April of next year."—N. They regret the modification of the General's proelamation of freedom to the slaves, but congratulate the friends of civil liberty throughout the world that the bondsmen of all Missourians in arms against the Union, between the date of General Fremont's proelamation and the President countermanding it, are far beyond the power of any law of polities in the intent to reduce them again to THE SISTERS OF CHARITY
